WEST CONCORD.

A Worthy Record.

Rev. and Mrs. P. N. Granger have shipped their furniture to Peacham the past week, where they are to reside with their daughter, Mrs. H. A. McLachlin. Mr. Granger retires from the Methodist conference the first of April, after having spent 51 years as a minister. For eight years he served the St. Albans and St. Johnsbury districts as presiding elder. During the early part of his ministry he spent several years lecturing for the state temperance society. He has ever kept abreast of the times and is always an interesting and entertaining speaker, notwithstanding his four score years. In the years he has been stationed here, he with his most estimable wife have ever worked for the best interests of the church and the community and the West Concord charge may well feel the honor that the last service he rendered as a preacher fell to them. As they leave for their new home, the well wishes of their friends, not only in the Methodist church, but in the Universalist and the community as well, go with them. There has never been such a spirit of unity and harmony existing between the the two churches as during Mr. Granger's pastorate, for which partial credit is due Mr. Smith, pastor of the Universalist

A Well Presented Play. The Old District School of Blueberry Corner played to a full house Friday evening. The entertainment was varied and full of fun from beginning to end. The school presented a grand appearance in the old-fashioned clothes and made very good boys and girls of 50 years ago, playing the same tricks and games as in those days. There were dull scholars and bright ones, but all did themselves much credit under the instruction of School Master Pendigrass. Among the selections which took down the house were a song, "Cock, Agaw, Gable Gaw Goo" by Josephus Snoggle Blossom, also a song by Schoolmaster Pendigrass written more than 100 years ago, with violin accompaniment by Moses Bruso and David Adams beating the time. Two of the compositions deserve mention as also the work done in one of the classes. The entertainment closed with a spelling match Mrs. W. S. Brock spelling down and winning the prize. Over $40 was taken at the door.

Riverside Lodge, No. 49 of Good Tem-plars, will celebrate its 25th anniversary Tuesday evening, in their hall in the Masonic block. All are cordially invited to attend. The admission is only ten cents and for this there will be an excellent entertainment closing with a promenade with music by the Lyndonville orchestra. The program will include an operetta, "We'll have to mortgage the farm," by Rev. E. Newell and family, a piano solo by Charles Stevens, piano duet by Mrs. Fred Pound and Miss Bessie Aldrich, song by Miss Grace Fin-ney, duet by Mrs. E. S. Cowles and Mrs. Ben Pierce, a Delsarte exercise by Misses Marguerite Robinson and Grace Finney, and readings by Mrs. H. O. Allen, Mrs. Nantie Rogan and Miss Marguerite Robinson. There will also be a brief historical sketch of the lodge. It is hoped there will be a large attendance.

The entertainment given Saturday evening in the lecture course was by Fred Emerson Brooks, who in his own words was "neither orator or lecturer, but could read his own poetry." He added that he "guessed he was the only one who did," but no one in the audience would feel inclined to make such a statement after the very favorable impression he made here. The entertainment consisted mostly of readings from his own ions and descriptive selections. bumor and pathos were in ewidence, and he gave many selections especially pleasing to the younger portion of the audience, as well as to the older ones. As a whole, the evening was very much enjoyed by all present, and deserved a larger audience. A. J. Cassin died last week from the effects of an accident incurred in the railroad yard here. He slipped and was crushed between two cars, injuring him internally so that he died in a few days. He has lived here but a few years and since last spring has held the position of night car inspector. Funeral services were held at the Methodist church Sunday morning. He was a member of the Odd Fellows' Lodge, here who have been doing all possible to provide care for his widow, who has been quite ill. Mrs. Cassin is left quite alone with a baby girl to care for. Her circumstances are sad, and a great deal of sympathy is expressed for her. Mrs. George Mead and her mother have come here and, with Rev. Mr. Mead, are boarding at the Union House until they can go to housekeeping at the
